

Science-policy interface in practice

The example of a collective scientific expertise at the request of public authorities on the impacts of plant protection products on biodiversity and ecosystem services

Webinar

January 11th, 2024 1:30 to 3 p.m CET

⇒ REGISTRATION

Opening

- Thierry Caquet, Scientific Director for the Environment of INRAE, Chair of the PEER Partnership
5'
- Allan Watt, UKCEH, Chair of the Alternet Management Board
5'

Introductory keynote speech: Collective scientific assessment at INRAE: a tool to enlighten public debate and inform policymaking

- Guy Richard, Head of the Directorate for collective scientific assessment, foresight and advanced studies (DEPE) at INRAE 10'

The collective scientific assessment on “The impacts of plant protection products on biodiversity and ecosystem services”

Results of the study and its impacts on public action

- Laure Mamy and/or Stéphane Pesce, INRAE, scientific coordinators of the collective scientific expertise 20'

Origin of the request and use of the study at national level

- Marc Moroni, Head of the Research department, Ministry of Ecological Transition 10'

Use of the study for European regulation

- Tobin Robinson, Head of Environment, Plants & Ecotoxicology, Risk Assessment Production Department at the European Food Safety Authority (EFSA)
10'

Open discussion with the participants (ALTERNET & PEER communities)

30'